Do you want to learn how to run your business from the cloud to increase productivity and profitability?

If you answered YES to the above question then mark December 5, 2017 on your calendar to attend the New Jersey Independent Electrical Contractors Association's (NJ-IEC) symposium:

Learn How to Become a Cloud Based Electrical Contractor

This symposium is presented by simPRO a leading technology company whose office solutions and mobile apps are built for electrical contractors to streamline every aspect of business – including electrical time and material work, maintenance work, and project management. Click here to learn more about simPRO.

Additionally, there will be 2 hours of CEUs, a table top trade show, and prizes, including a Grand Prize of a 60" TV (must be present to win).

The event will be held at Ariana's Grand, 800 Rahway Avenue, Woodbridge, NJ. There is no cost for electrical contractors to attend the simPRO presentation or the table top trade show. There is a refundable registration fee for CEUs. Registration is here.

If you answered NO to the above question, you better rethink your answer. Not because you have to want to be more productive and profitable, but because property owners and general contractors are going to require it, and the next generation of your employees will expect it.
